

Essential Skills for a career in the Netherlands

Going Dutch

Going Dutch is a special programme designed to help international Master's students gain an understanding of their place in the Dutch labour market. How do you find a job in the Netherlands? How do you present yourself in this market?

In two workshops, Karen Gordon, career coach for international professionals, will guide you through the application process and more. Thanks to her international experience and specific, wide-ranging expertise, she can give you unique insights and skills to help you move forward with your international career.

The Programme

Workshop 1

- The dos and don'ts of applying for jobs in the Dutch labour market
- How to research the market
- The common CV errors that applicants make

Workshop 2

- How to be an interesting candidate as an international job seeker in the Netherlands
- How to collaborate with recruitment agencies
- Negotiation and intercultural challenges in the workplace

“I really enjoyed talking to people who are in the same situation as me.”

“Loved both workshops. Every single word that Karen says is based in experience, not from books or assumptions.”

“It provided insightful knowledge on what employers look at potential employees. Especially their mindset in approaching internationals, as well as what internationals can do to increase their value and competitiveness in the labour market.”
